Expediency and Commodious Travelling.

The Edinburgh and Newcastle Diligence or Fly by Cornhill, conducted by the Newcastle Fly to London by Wetherby—the Glasgow Fly by Falkirk, &c.—and the Aberdeen Fly by Perth—set off from JAMES ROBERTSON'S, at the Black Bull, Pleasance, Edinburgh, as usual.

ANXIOUS to accommodate the Public to the utmost of their power.

The Proprietors of these Flys have exerted, and will continue to exert, every effort to render their conveyances as safe and commodious both for parcels and passengers, as the rapidity of driving will admit of. Profiting by long experience, they have from time to time adopted such improvements as appeared to them to be conducive to both these objects; and they flatter themselves, that some improvements lately made will meet with the approbation and encouragement of the public. Nevertheless the proprietors, from some persons having of late affected to misunderstand the import of former advertisements, respecting goods and parcels sent by these Flys, beg leave most respectfully to inform the public, that all persons who send, or order to be sent, any goods or parcels by these conveyances, must take the risk of Loss or Damage occasioned by the friction of the carriages, flight package, or otherwise, entirely on themselves; because it is utterly impossible, in the nature of the thing, for the proprietors either to examine the state of every package put in, or to determine what will or will not prove sufficient at the end of the journey. The proprietors further beg leave to notify to the public, that they will on no account be answerable, even for goods or parcels lost or abstracted, to a greater amount than Fifteen Pounds Sterling; and to that amount only, in the event of the proprietor claiming his property within one month after booking the goods or parcel, and proving the value.

While the proprietors are, in justice to themselves, thus obliged unequivocally to declare to the public, that these, and these only, are the terms on which they carry goods or parcels by the Diligences and Flys above mentioned, they at the same time beg leave, with gratitude for past favours, and hopes of encouragement in future, to declare, that no pains will be spared, both to please passengers, and to prevent loss or damage of parcels, to the utmost of their power.

TO BE SOLD.

THE LANDS and ESTATE of PITRICHIE, holden of the Crown, lying in the parish of Udace, and county of Aberdeen.

For further particulars, application to be made to William Macdonald writer to the signet, Edinburgh.

Naples, September 13.

From the London Papers, Oct. 18.

Warsaw, Sept. 15. We have accounts from Podolia, that they have been witness to a very extraordinary phenomenon in that country; the forest of Jarmaline has disappeared; it sunk into the ground at once, without any motion of the earth, either before or after the event; the tops of some of the trees are only seen in a few places. The cause of this is attributed to some large interior cavities, which have by the late heavy rains been filled with water, which has considerably softened the ground.

The harvest has been very abundant this year in Moldavia and Wallachia.

The cotton trees, cultivated in the neighbourhood of Selenick and Melnick, succeed very well, and a sufficient quantity of cotton is gathered this year to lower the price of that commodity very much.

Hamburg, Sept. 16. By a decree of the Magistrates, dated the 12th of this month, all lotteries are forbid; the receivers are ordered to shut up their shops within four weeks from the date of the decree.

Dantick, Sept. 30. The answer of the Court of Berlin, on the propositions of the Court of Russia, respecting the different explication of some points of the Convention concluded with our city, is not yet known. The Minister from Peterburgh hath dispatched some memorials to divers Courts to interest them in favour of our cause. It is certain that the entire ruin of Dantick will ensue if the Court of Berlin persists in her purpose.

Cologne, Oct. 7. Notwithstanding all the preparations for peace, the transports of magazines continue to be sent to the Low Countries, and the Austrian troops are still in full march.

Hague, Oct. 12. Their Noble and Great Mightinesses the deliberations this day. In their last session it was unanimously resolved to ratify the preliminaries of the peace; and this resolution being resumed the day before yesterday, was confirmed, but under the express condition and sine qua non, "That the Emperor shall acknowledge the sovereignty of the Republic over the Scheld from Sasstengen to the sea, in virtue and in confirmation of the treaty of Munster; that also, the entrances of the Sae and the Swin are to remain shut, with an injunction, that the Ministers of the Republic at Paris must not conclude the definitive treaty without the express stipulation of those conditions."

We learn from Leuven, that the Hereditary Prince Stadholder is arrived there in perfect health, with the whole Most Serene Family.

The Rynggrave of Salm returned here on the 7th inst. from his journey to France.

The provinces of Gueldres have sent to the Generalité a resolution, by which they declare, "That they leave the ratification of the preliminary articles to those provinces which have agreed to the instructions lately sent to the Ambassadors at Paris, and to which the Deputies of the said provinces have not concurred, not having been charged with decisive orders in that respect; but the province, however, intends not to stop or retard the conclusion."

LONDON.

On Sunday the Duke and Duchess of Cumberland arrived in town in perfect health; their Highnesses supped and passed the evening at Carlton-house with the Prince of Wales.

This morning his Royal Highness the Duke of Cumberland paid his first visit to his Majesty at Windsor, since his arrival from abroad. It being a day set apart for the diversion of hunting, it was expected the Duke would join the sport of the morning, previous to his paying his devotions to the Queen and the Prince's Royal, &c. The cause of his Royal Highness not going to Windsor immediately on his arrival in town, was owing to the importance of a certain personage, who had a very singular match at Newmarket, to be run yesterday morning.

Yesterday the Duchess of Cumberland paid a visit to the Princess Amelia at Gunnersbury.

On Saturday last Lord Viscount Stormont arrived in town from Scotland.

Yesterday the baggage of his Grace the Duke of Dorset was sent off for Paris, to which city the Ambassador himself sets out by Thursday next at farthest.

Commodore Thompson is sailed for Goree, on the coast of Africa, with positive instructions to enforce from the French an adherence to treaties, if they should not otherwise be inclined to an amicable accommodation. The Commodore was detained at Portsmouth a month beyond the period intended for his sailing, in order that the sloop which the French had dispatched from Brest with instructions to their naval commander might arrive on the coast before him, as it was well known that the reception which he would meet with in that quarter from the French officers would be the clearest explanation of what those instructions might be. The Nautilus sloop of war, Captain Tap, will be dispatched home as soon as possible after their arrival on the coast, to give the earliest intelligence to Government of the true state of affairs.

The following is an exact account of the Royal Navy now in commission in all quarters of the globe:

In the East Indies: Three ship of the line, one of 50 guns, three frigates, and two sloops.

Coast of Africa, with Commodore E. Thompson, Esq; One of 50 guns, and two sloops of 16 guns each.

In the Mediterranean, under the command of Commodore Philip Cosby, Esq; One ship of 50 guns, seven frigates, and five sloops.

America, on the Halifax station, under the command of Commodore Herbert Sawyer, Esq; One of 50 guns, two frigates, and eleven sloops.

At Newfoundland, with Vice-Admiral J. Campbell, Esq; One of 50 guns, two frigates, and five sloops.

West Indies. At Jamaica, under command of Rear-Admiral James Innes, Esq; One of 50 guns, three frigates, seven sloops, and two tenders.

At the Leeward Islands, under command of Rear-Admiral Sir R. Hughes, Bart. One of 50 guns, four frigates, and nine sloops, and a cutter to carry dispatches to and fro.

Cruisers about home: Seven frigates, twenty sloops, and thirteen cutters.

Guardships at the several sea-ports.

Portsmouth: Seven ships of the line, i.e. one of 90, five of 74, and one of 64 guns.

Plymouth: Eight ships of the line, i.e. four of 74, and four of 64 guns.

Chatham and Sheerness: One of 74, and two of 64 guns.

Total in commission, October 1. 1785: Twenty-one ships of the line, seven of 50 guns, twenty-eight frigates, sixty-one sloops, and sixteen cutters.

We informed our readers, that the Court of Directors had come to the strange resolution of suffering their servants to draw on them to the amount of 6,000,000 l. The pretence is, the weight of their debts in India, and that they will transfer them to England; they have therefore sent out orders to Bengal, to draw upon the Court to the amount of six millions sterling, which sum will nearly include the debts of all the Presidencies. The bills are to be drawn at 1s. 8d. per current rupee, and at a proportionable rate for the pagoda and Bombay rupee, payable at 548 days after date, with an option to postpone the full payment, on the Company's paying interest half yearly, at the rate of five per cent. per annum, from the time of their becoming due, and on paying instalments of not less than 10 per cent. on the principal, in every year after the 1st of March 1790, unless discharged by earlier or greater payments; for the convenience of the servants, bills of 500 l. are to be issued.

Two vessels, with proper tackling, will be dispatched immediately to Sea Reach, to take advantage of the first calm weather that happens, in weighing up the Rambler cutter, whose mast appears above water on the ebb tide.

The West-India proprietors were greatly alarmed on Saturday, with a report of a dreadful hurricane having done much mischief among the islands; but, on enquiry, we are happy to learn, that though there was a storm there the latter end of August, much mischief has not been done. Several ships, however, put to sea on the 26th and 27th of that month, but returned in three or four days afterwards. Many small craft also were afloat, but very little damage done to the buildings, or sugar canes, at any of the islands.

What is supposed to have caused the report of the hurricane in the West Indies, was owing to a ship having been driven from her moorings at Dominica, by a brisk gale of wind, on the 26th of August; which ship, while at sea, was spoke with by another vessel that arrived at some of the out ports. The crew of this vessel magnified the gale to a dreadful hurricane; but, by letters received yesterday from the Windward Islands, dated September 1st, the whole matter is represented as a trifling circumstance.

Since this paper went to press, a packet is arrived from the West Indies, and we are sorry to add, brings a very unfavourable account from some of the islands of a great deal of mischief done there on the 26th and 27th of August; but the calamity does not appear to be general; for, in some islands, they had what may be styled only a brisk gale, whilst in others they had a tremendous hurricane, that has done considerable damage on shore as well as at sea; but the letters will not be out in time to give the particulars in our Chronicle of this evening. St James's Chron.

Dr Franklin's Algiers hardships are merely visionary, but his Southampton dangers had like to have proved substantial enough; — for the people of that place, considering him as the original author of the American war, had meditated some very severe treatment of him, of which having intimation he made a precipitate retreat.

WIND AT DEAL, Oct. 17. E.

EDINBURGH.

Extract of a letter from London, Oct. 18.

"Nothing new of any consequence, either of a foreign or domestic nature, has transpired since my last.

"His Majesty, who has of late been fonder of hunting than ever, this morning took the diversion thereof in the neighbourhood of Windsor, in which he was to have been joined by the Prince of Wales and the Duke of Cumberland, who yesterday morning set off together for Newmarket, from whence they proposed travelling all night to Windsor. The occasion of the Prince's going to Newmarket on such a sudden, is said to be owing to a bet of 5000 l. which his Royal Highness made, when at supper the evening before, at Carlton-House.

"The return of a certain great personage from the Continent has given no little surprise, as the cause of his quitting the kingdom is well known to continue; and, if reports are to be credited, matters have been made rather worse by his late trip than they were before.

"It is a mistake, that a person lately returned from the East Indies, meaning Mr Haltings, has given three thousand pounds to discharge debtors from the Fleet Prison, as circumstances stated in the public papers. The fact is, an old maid, who lately died, left five thousand pounds for the release of debtors confined in the city of London; and, in consequence thereof, upwards of one hundred and twenty persons, imprisoned for debt, have been enlarged, and restored to their families.

"The most powerful interest is now said to be making through a certain oriental quarter, for the purpose of saving a certain late eminent corn contractor from the indignity of standing in the pillory. Mr A —'s term of imprisonment expires the latter end of the next month, and consequently, before the close of the ensuing term, it must be determined, whether he is to suffer that part of his sentence, or not. By a rule of court, he was to have done it on the 17th of May, but that order was superseded by the writ of error brought before the House of Lords, which not availing Mr A —, it reverted to the Judges to appoint a day for his standing in the pillory; and next term, (no opportunity having yet offered for it) which commences the 6th of next month, a fresh rule of court will be made out for it, and put in force, unless Mr A — should be enabled to procure a pardon from his Majesty.

"The officer who lately shot himself a few days after his arrival from the East Indies, has afforded another melancholy proof of the horrid effects of gaming. He brought home with him 25,000 l. every shilling of which he lost the third day after being in London, at one of the fashionable gaming-houses in St James Street."

On Wednesday last, died here, Miss Henrietta Warrender, daughter of Sir John Warrender of Lochend, Bart.

Died in December last, — Massulaparam, in the Madras establishment, Ensign George Gardner, second son of Dr Gardner, physician in Edinburgh.

The idea entertained by the heirs of Linlithgow-shire, concerning the Scots Judges bill, of increasing the salaries, without diminishing the number of the Judges, (See an advertisement in this night's paper), seems to be the same with that entertained by his Majesty's servants in the law department here, during the late administration. That they continued a short time longer in office, therefore, we have authority to say, that a bill for augmenting the salaries of our Judges, without diminishing their numbers, would, in all probability, have been passed into a law.

Mr Walter Hogg is appointed Manager of the British Linen Company, in room of Mr George Goldie deceased.

Yesterday was launched at Leith, amidst a great concourse of spectators, a fine new vessel called the Diana, burden 140 tons, intended for the London trade, James Ritchie master, she was built by Mr. James Crawford.

Yesterday, about half past two o'clock, Mr Lunardi made good his engagement, by ascending with his Air Balloon from Kelso. The place fixed upon for that purpose was the church yard. The ascent was equally magnificent with that which was exhibited in Heriot's Gardens, and gave great satisfaction to a vast concourse of spectators, collected from all parts of the neighbouring country, the number of whom was supposed to be about ten thousand. The day was rather cloudy, but very calm. Any wind that was, blew from the west; so that it is probable he would be carried in the direction of Berwick. We have heard no account of his descent; but it is thought he will endeavour, if possible, to make it in Coldingham muir. He proposes to return to Kelso immediately upon his landing, having engaged to dine with the Nobility and Gentry there this day.

We hear, a very fortunate circumstance has lately been discovered in favour of a Chairmaster of this place. It seems, about ten years ago, he had purchased a Lottery Ticket, which was then drawn a 20,000 l. prize. But the ticket had been so carefully laid up, that all search for it proved ineffectual. Within these few days, however, upon looking over some papers, the ticket was luckily found, which will not only entitle the proprietor to the 20,000 l. but also to interest from the term of the payment.

CONVENTION OF DELEGATES.

The General Convention of Delegates, from the Burghs of the Royal Boroughs associated for the purpose of Reform, met on Wednesday last, according to adjournment.

Robert Beatson, Esq; of Viccargrange, Vice Preses, in the absence of Mr Graham of Gartmore, Preses, took the Chair, and Mr Ewen of Aberdeen took his place as Secretary.

The Convention was numerous and respectable, and after passing an unanimous vote of thanks to their Committee, for the ability and attention with which they had conducted the business of Reform, the Convention proceeded to deliberate on the Bill of Reform, prepared by the Committee. Their deliberations were continued for two days, and the Bill with certain variations was unanimously approved of; so that the Delegates have now finally adjusted the Propositions of Reform, which are intended to be submitted to the consideration of Parliament.

The meeting further resolved, that be the fate of the present intended application what it may, the Burghs shall meet by their Delegates annually at Edinburgh, on the 20th of August, until they obtain the objects of reform.

The Convention also resolved, that a fund should be instantaneously established, adequate to the purpose of carrying the reform into Parliament.

Thursday about fifty Delegates dined together at Pool's Hotel, when many loyal and constitutional toasts were drunk.

LEVELLING THE STREET.

Yesterday, a meeting of proprietors of houses, &c. situated on the High Street, was held in St John's Lodge, Canongate, to consider of a proposal made by the Lord Provost and Magistrates, to accommodate matters relative to levelling the street, by submitting it to the final arbitration of five gentlemen, mutually to be chosen by both parties, the substance of which proposal from the Lord Provost and Magistrates appeared in our last.

Mr Thomas Hay, Preses of the meeting, in a speech of considerable length, laid before them the proceedings of their Committee since the last general meeting was held. He took notice of the vindication which had appeared in the papers of Monday last, in favour of the Magistrates, and the letter which he thought himself called upon to publish, for his own justification, in answer to it. Mr Hay acknowledged, that the letter which he wrote to the Lord Provost, at the desire of the Committee, and which appeared in our paper of Wednesday, offering terms of accommodation, was not delivered to his Lordship till half past three on Monday afternoon, and consequently might be too late to enable his Lordship to stop the publication of the Magistrates' vindication in that night's papers; but still Mr Hay insisted, he was justified in the observation made at the conclusion of his answer, that an amicable settlement was not so much the wish of his Lordship as he would have the public to believe, because more than an ordinary anxiety was discovered to have the same vindication published, in the Advertiser of next day, by no less than two messages being sent to the publisher in the morning of Tuesday, for that purpose. Mr Hay then desired, that the letter sent by him to the Lord Provost, at the desire of the Committee, might be read, which being done accordingly, he wished to know of the proprietors present, if the proposals for accommodation therein contained, met with their approbation? This being unanimously determined in the affirmative, Mr Hay next begged leave to call the attention of the meeting to what was the sensible reason for bringing them together. He mentioned, that, on Tuesday last, the Lord Provost, in a Committee of Council, suggested the proposal, mentioned in our last, of submitting all differences to arbitration. This having met the ideas of the Committee, his Lordship next day introduced the matter to the Council by a motion, which being seconded, an act of Council was immediately passed in terms of the Lord Provost's motion, a certified copy of which had been transmitted to Mr Hay, and which he now had the honour of laying before the meeting. The act of Council being then read, Mr Hay hoped to be indulged in making a few observations upon it. In the first place, however disagreeable it was to him to find fault with the resolutions of public bodies of men, or to suppose them capable of mis-stating facts in any of their proceedings; yet, in the present instance, he could not help observing, that, in the very outset, a falsehood, or something so near to it, that he could not find another name for it, appeared in the act of Council. It was there stated, as if the list which had been granted by the Lords of Session proceeded merely on account of the danger which might accrue to a few vaults; whereas the truth is, the list was in general terms, and comprehended every article specified in the bill of suspension presented for the proprietors. The next observation Mr Hay had to offer was, that the act of Council was far from being sufficiently explicit. It left nothing for the determination of the arbiters, but the damage which might be sustained from the lowering of vaults, or the tumbling down of whole tenements. This, he could by no means admit, was a fair and candid submission. He could suppose many injuries which a proprietor might sustain, by carrying the present scheme into execution, without being hurt by the contracting of vaults or undermining of houses. Was the deterioration of property in shops and houses, as well on the street, as down closes leading from it, not to affect the parochial interests of the Heirors? It certainly was; and yet, by the submission proposed by the Lord Provost and Magistrates, the arbiters could grant relief in any one instance but the two they have been pleased to specify. To evince the certainty, almost, of great damage being done in several places, and danger being apprehended in others, Mr Hay referred to the report of Messrs. Young and Salisbury, which he desired might be read, and which he contrasted with the condescension and report made out by Messrs. Brown and Keay. The last observation, Mr. Hay said, he should trouble the meeting with, on the act of Council now before them, was the liberty taken by the Lord Provost and Magistrates, of dictating to the proprietors whom they should choose for their arbiters. The gentlemen contained in their list, he admitted, were persons of the highest respect, and against whose honour or abilities, he, nor, he was persuaded, any person who heard him, could have the smallest objection. But, the conduct of the Magistrates, on this occasion, was of a piece with the cavalier manner they had been pleased to treat every decent requisition on the part of the proprietors. When first the work of levelling the street began, and the heirs saw their best interests likely to be invaded, no satisfaction whatever could be procured. They were forced to apply to a court of law for redress; and now, when that Court has, in effect, found the Magistrates in the wrong, they, unlike all other clients in similar circumstances, have the modesty to tell you who they will allow you to choose for your arbiters. Mr Hay declared he had no objections to a submission; on the contrary, it was what he wished above all things: but then it must not only be an explicit one, but both parties must be on equal terms as to the power of choosing their arbiters.

A few words were said by some other proprietors, who entirely coincided in sentiments with Mr Hay, and only one Gentleman present seemed to entertain any other opinion. He, indeed, insisted, that the act of Council was fully explicit to comprehend every possible damage, and gave ample powers to the arbiters to determine upon them. The Gentlemen named by the Magistrates, he observed, were such as no person whatever could object to. The Magistrates, besides, had granted the proprietors a very material indulgence, by allowing them to chuse three arbiters, while they only reserved the choice of two to themselves. He, therefore, was of opinion, that the proposed submission should be accepted of. The vote, however, being put, Submit, or Not? it carried Not? with the dissentient voice of the above Gentleman only, who, it was alledged at the meeting, was proprietor of a house at the bottom of Halkerton's Wynd, which brings him in a rent of about 41. yearly, but which might be somewhat better, were the proposed plan, which he supported, to be carried into effect. The meeting then agreed, that a minute should be made up of yesterday's proceedings, and transmitted to the Lord Provost and Magistrates; and that their preses, at the same time, should request an answer to the letter delivered by him to the Lord Provost, containing the accommodation the proprietors were willing to agree to. The former committee was continued, with full powers, in case the Magistrates did not agree to the proposed accommodation, or offer such terms as could be accepted of, to proceed to use legal means to oblige the Magistrates to restore the street to its former situation.

Extract of a letter from Aberdeen, Oct. 19.

" For these two nights past we have been greatly alarmed, and all in confusion here, occasioned by the most numerous and audacious mob I ever saw. It originated on Monday evening by some differences amongst the servants and apprentices of some of the trades. They of new assembled yesterday morning, patrolling the streets, which obliged the Magistrates to interfere to preserve the peace. Three of these lads were apprehended and committed to prison. In the evening, the Magistrates met to take a recognition of their riotous behaviour. The mob again assembled, and insulted the Magistrates, and stopped them in the exercise of their duty in a most disgraceful and shocking manner. They broke and demolished with stones the whole windows of the Council-hous, where the Magistrates were, and put them in such terror and danger of their lives, that they were forced to liberate the prisoners they had committed in the forenoon. They called the assistance of the military, but being so few in number, only fifteen, they could not face a mob of many thousands. These rioters have been quiet to-day; but, it is thought, are to meet in the evening. The Magistrates are just now deliberating on the business, with a number of the principal inhabitants. Luckily there is no material hurt done to any person. How it may end, there is no saying. Such an audacious attempt to interrupt the course of justice, I believe has seldom occurred in any civilized country."

Extract of a letter from Baltimore, (Maryland), Aug. 12.

" On Tuesday evening, arrived here, directly from China, the ship Pallas, commanded by its owner, Captain O'Donnell. She has on board a most valuable cargo, consisting of an extensive variety of teas, china, silks, satins, nankeens, &c. &c.

Extract of a letter from Norfolk, (Virginia) Aug. 20.

" We had a violent gulf here, attended with hailstones of an uncommon size, which destroyed all the windows in the town that were exposed to the storm, and demolished three houses. Two ships were drove ashore on the Golport side, and one vessel foundered in Hampton Roads, and all hands perished."

Extract of a letter from Dublin, Oct. 15.

" Yesterday at the General Quarter Assembly of the Corporation of the city of Dublin, held at the Tholsel, thanks to the VIRTUOUS ONE HUNDRED AND TEN, who voted against the introduction of Mr Orde's commercial bill, were unanimously agreed to, as also several spirited resolutions reprobating the measure, and all idea of its re-introduction. After Dublin, Cork, Belfast, and Galway, together with so many respectable counties, have thus unequivocally expressed their total disapprobation of this bill, and not even a petty borough is procured to stand its advocate, will any man alive tell us, in the Senate, that the people of Ireland will for its revival? and will any man alive be so besotted as to vote for its admission in any shape whatever?

" Monday night last, a vessel, supposed to be foreign, was wrecked on the rocky islands called Bloisques, on the coast of Kerry, and every person perished. Fourteen chests were driven on shore, containing wearing apparel, plate, watches, and other valuable articles; from whence it is imagined that the ship was Spanish, and bound from some part in South America, or the islands, for Old Spain.

" This day James Ennis was hanged and quartered at the front of Newgate, for the unnatural murder of his mother. On receiving his sentence last Thursday, he shone as if an epileptic had seized his whole frame, yet his colour never changed; and he seemed inclined to employ the few remaining hours he had to live, with that composure and sorrow which became his unhappy situation.—The learned judge pronounced sentence on him, with all that awful solemnity, that must have impressed the deepest horror, not only on the unhappy man himself, but every hearer."

JUDICIAL SALE OF DURN.

BY ADJOURNMENT.

To be Sold by public roup, under authority of the Court of Session, within the Parliament-house, Edinburgh, upon Thursday the 24th day of November 1785, between the hours of four and six afternoon,

A. Teinds and Mill of the same, lying in the parish of Fordyce and shire of Banff; the proven free rent whereof, exclusive of the cfs, which is paid by the tenants, is 721 l. 6s. 4d. 3-12ths, and the upft price 19,467 l. 10s. 6d. The valued rent is 932 l. Scots; and those parts of the lands held of the Crown, entitle the proprietor to a freehold-qualification in the county.

The estate is reckoned to contain about 1600 Scots acres, exclusive of a share in an undivided common and moors. It is situated within a quarter of a mile of that populous flourishing sea-port town called Portsoy, five miles from Banff, and three from Cullen, through all the great post-road heads, and in that district of the shire called the Boyne, remarkable for its excellent soil and climate, fertile in all kinds of grain, and of late much distinguished for a spirit of improvement.—The estate is well tenanted, most of the leases nearly expired, and, upon a renewal, it is expected will yield more than double the present rent.—The lands abound with lime-stone, marble, and whin-stone quarries; and on the hill of Durn there are great quantities of white stone, fit for potties, for which advantageous offers have been made. The lands are also well accommodated with the means of improvement, as the barony has a servitude on the inexhaustible moors of Park, and, from their vicinity to water-carrage, coal, and every other necessary, are easily procured. The Gardens of Durn are very extensive, and well stocked with fruit-trees of the best kinds; a considerable part of the estate contiguous to the house is inclosed and subdivided with whin and thorn hedges, with belts of thriving young plantations, which renders the parks remarkably warm and well sheltered. There is likewise a good deal of old planting about the house, on which no value is put.
